

Notes on Contributors.

Gráinne Boyle is an Assistant Principal in the Irish Department of Defence. She previously worked in the food industry, in Kerry Group and All-technology Ireland. She has a Master in Business Administration and Management from the Irish Management Institute and University College Cork, a Master in Philosophy from Dublin Institute of Technology and University College Cork, and a degree in Human Nutrition and Dietetics, from the University of Dublin, Trinity College.

Muiris de Buitléir is a chartered surveyor specialising in geographical information systems (GIS). He has a particular interest in the use of these systems in military cartography and battlefield analysis. He holds an MSc in GIS from the University of Huddersfield and an MA in Military History and Strategic Studies from Maynooth University. His career was spent with the National Monuments branch of the Heritage Service and he served for a time on the Historical Battlefields Advisory Committee as cartographic advisor. He is now retired.

Eoghan Carton is a Commandant (OF-3) and an engineering officer in the Irish Defence Forces where he has served in a number of appointments at home and overseas, including as Defence Forces Energy Manager. He is a civil engineer (BEng), chartered through the Institute of Engineers Ireland. He holds a Master's Degree in Leadership, Management and Defence Studies and Level 9 Post Graduate Diplomas in 'Sustainable Energy' and 'Nearly Zero Energy Buildings'. He has a special interest in climate change, decarbonisation and energy management and has represented the Defence Forces in this field at national and international level.

Mark Conway is a Lieutenant Colonel in the Irish Defence Forces. He was commissioned into the Infantry Corps in 2005 and transferred to the Communications & Information Services Corp in 2016. He has completed a BSc in Geomatics from TUD, a MSC in Communications Technology Management through SETU and a MA in Leadership, Management and Defence Studies from Maynooth University. Lieutenant Colonel Conway has served in a number of command and staff appoints in Ireland and abroad and most recently held the appoint of Lieutenant Colonel – Commander, Cyber Rapid Response Team (CRRT), 2 Brigade

Lisa Hennessy is a Principal Officer in the Legislation Branch of the Irish Department of Defence. She is responsible for the modernisation and simplification of specific elements of defence legislation, both primary and secondary, and for participating in the formulation of policy on other proposals for regulatory change. Lisa is also responsible for coordinating the Department of Defence's response to legislative proposals sponsored by other government departments.

Aidan Ryan is a Commandant (OF-3) in the Irish Defence Forces. He was a member of the 80th Cadet Class and was commissioned to the Infantry Corps in 2005. He previously completed an MSc in Guidance Counselling with Dublin City University. Aidan graduated with the 06th Joint Command and Staff Course in 2024.